

The consolidated Common Central Secretariat with ten office buildings will house modern offices for all ministries of the Government of India. All the works planned on the Central Vista are designed to be mindful of the Vista's original layout and its architectural character. The Central Secretariat is planned to ensure that the amount of publically accessible space in the Vista remains unchanged; the height of the buildings do not exceed that of the India Gate and they do not hamper the view from Rajpath. The Secretariat will be served by highly energy efficient and sustainable infrastructure and its functionality will contribute significantly to improving the productivity and efficiency of administration.
