Images are matter and their value means no less.
 Images are arguments.
 A silhouette, e.g., always represents the approximate height. It matters, however, how the top end of a silhouette is drawn.
 The thinner the silhouette along the neck and shoulders the slimmer the person is, e.g., if a person's silhouette appears too thin it might imply, e.g., a lack of health.
 Unnatural colors and features in the dress are generally indicative of the season. For example, if one wears a dress with a pattern that is typical of the winter season, it might indicate that the person is not aware of the season or that they are not aware of the current fashion trends.
