

The map displays the Kosi River basin in Nepal, with the proposed relocation site for the Kosi Barrage highlighted in yellow. The site is located near the Kosi River, which flows through the region. The map includes contour lines, rivers, and various geographical features. The Kosi River is shown flowing from the north towards the south, with several tributaries. The surrounding areas are labeled with numbers and names, indicating different regions and districts. The map also shows the Kosi River flowing through the region, with various tributaries and surrounding areas labeled with numbers and names.