zens also relaxed, he said.

"There will be no harm (from the lockdown), one will not lose anything by staying at home for two months," he said.

"There is no need to step out unless absolutely essential. Even during this weekend lockdown and night curfew, instead of co-operating with the government, many sectors demanded relaxations. And mind you, it is these sectors which were the super spreaders of the virus like eateries, tea joints, cigarette vendors and so on," he added.

"Other states and countries too have opted for lockdowns to increase facilities and break the chain to control the second wave."

Another livid expert, also working closely with the government, warned: "If the situation continues this way, then in four to five months' time, at least 60 per cent of the city's population will be infected!"
