'Kim, Putin summit to discuss arms deal'

Kremlin declines to confirm North Korean dictator's visit

WASHINGTON

A United States official said on Monday that North Korean leader Kim Jong Un may travel to the US soon to meet with President Vladimir Putin as the Kremlin tries to acquire military equipment for use in its war in Ukraine.

The official, who spoke to AP on condition of anonymity, said the US expects Kim will make the trip within the month. The official said the US isn't sure exactly where or when the meeting would take place, but the Pacific port city of Vladivostok would be a likely possibility given its relative proximity to North Korea.

National Security Council spokeswoman Adrienne Watson noted on Monday that Russian Defence Minister Sergei Shoigu travelled to Pyongyang recently and had tried to persuade N Korea to sell artillery ammunition to Russia.

Shoigu, who in July visited North Korea, on Monday said Moscow was considering joint military drills with North Korea. "Why not? They are our neighbours," Shoigu was quoted as saying by the TASS news agency, when asked about the possible exercises.

Watson said, "We have information that Kim Jong Un expects these discussions to continue, to include leader-level diplomatic engagement in Russia." She added that the US is urging North Korea "to use its arms negotiations with Russia and abide by the public commitments that Pyongyang has made to not provide or sell arms to Russia."

Shoigu said on Monday that the two countries may hold joint war games. The New York Times first reported that Kim planned to meet with Putin in Russia this month. However, the Kremlin on Tuesday declined to confirm a possible summit between Putin and Kim Jong Un.
